LETTER FROM THE CEO

Last August, a blog by Steven Lerner at aplus.com opened with the headline: “Unbelievable Things That Women In the U.S. Still Lack in 2015.”

Among them: paid maternity leave, full reproductive rights, paycheck equality, accessible and affordable birth control, safe births and being believed when reporting sexual assault.

“When you hear of the dire struggles of women around the world, you wouldn’t think of the U.S. as one of those places, but it is,” he wrote. “It is absolutely appalling that women in the U.S. are facing these unique hurdles.”

Now that August 2016 is here, it’s obvious that the challenges we face as women, advocates and human beings are daunting. That doesn’t mean they can’t be overcome. And, one thing I’ve learned in my role with the Arizona Family Health Partnership is that as onerous as those challenges may be, our resolve to address those issues is equally formidable.

Every year at this time, as we look back on our successes – and the work still to be done – I am emboldened by what we have collectively achieved because every step forward, even if they’re baby steps, is a step in the right direction.

No one can predict – although we can certainly hope for the best --- what the looming and unprecedented Presidential slugfest will bring, and what roadblocks may be dropped in our path. But our commitment to promote and protect access to comprehensive quality sexual and reproductive healthcare services and education remains robust and vigorous.

During 2015, through Title X funding of 35 clinics in 10 Arizona counties, 34,000 women, men and teens received high quality family planning care and information and an estimated 6,750 unintended pregnancies were prevented, saving Arizona nearly $56.7 million.

We also celebrated the 50th anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court’s landmark ruling in Griswold v. Connecticut which overturned an 1878 law prohibiting the sale and use of contraceptive services.

You will read more about our 2015 milestones in this annual report and you can rest assured that we will continue to fight the good fight in 2016 and beyond.

Sincerely,

Bré Thomas, CEO
January - Title X Providers
Six agencies were selected to provide Title X services with a start date of April 1. The agencies selected by AFHP were Pima County, Pinal County, Planned Parenthood Arizona, Yavapai County, Wesley Health Center, and Canyonlands Healthcare. All agencies funded through the competitive application have EMRs, bill for services, have contracts with third party payers, and either have, or are working on, diversified funding streams.

Ongoing - Training
AFHP continued to expand training capacity and delivered trainings to a wide variety of participants including home visitors, clinical staff, social services staff, WIC, and others.

July - New Staff
AFHP created a new outreach position and hired a recent Master of Public Health graduate whose presence on our staff has increased AFHP’s visibility in the community.

September - AFHP Salons
Greta Klingler, from the Colorado LARC project, discussed the positive impact of free LARC methods at AFHP Salons in Phoenix and Tucson.

November - LARC Partners
AFHP, along with more than 10 other community partner agencies, convened the LARC Plenary Committee, which seeks to increase access to LARC (long acting reversible contraceptives) for patients and LARC training for providers.

Ongoing - Lessons Learned
AFHP (with Pima County) was one of ten grantees nationwide selected to participate in a learning collaborative to increase the proportion of clients using moderately and highly effective methods including long acting reversible contraceptives. This project continued into 2016 with lots of great lessons learned that will be shared with other delegate agencies.

Ongoing - QFP
In cooperation with delegate agencies, AFHP revised the Program Standards and Policy Manual and Site Monitoring Tool to reflect 2014 Title X Requirements and Quality Family Planning Services.

Ongoing - ACA Enrollment
AFHP continued to provide enrollment assistance in Pima County through an OPA funded outreach and enrollment grant. Over 1,000 individuals were enrolled in health insurance during the course of this grant.

October - Prescott Salon
Title X supporters in Prescott held a celebration in honor of AFHP. Guests enjoyed homemade deserts and local Arizona wine to the sounds of local acapella group, Womansong.
